Sowing an Herbal Legacy
Symposium and Luncheon
Cost: $75 per person

Join us for a day of delightful Herbal Enlightenment. Since 1982 the members of the Pennsylvania Heartland Unit have held a symposium to educate and enlighten the public about herbs. This year our speaker is William Woys Weaver, food ethnographer and author. He will give two talks, one on the Sauer Herbal and the other on the Pennsylvania Dutch Kitchen Garden.

There will be ample opportunity for herbal learning and tasting throughout the day. After registering, we welcome you to sample the herbal refreshments that are prepared by our members. Take time to browse through the variety of interesting items available from our vendors. This is a great opportunity to do some early holiday shopping. Please be advised that some of the vendors only accept cash or check.

Visit the education table to learn about PA Dutch Kitchens. Stop by our tasting table for a sample of an herbal beverage featuring Chamomile, the International Herb Association's Herb of the Year. Be sure to check out the beautiful baskets and interesting items on display at the raffle tables. The raffle proceeds benefit the PHHS scholarship program.

Enjoy a delicious luncheon provided by the DoubleTree by Hilton, Reading. We hope you have an enjoyable day with us as we explore all areas related to herbs and our Herbal Legacy.

Featured Speaker: William Woys Weaver

William Woys Weaver is an internationally known food ethnographer and author of 20 books dealing with culinary history and heritage seeds. He is the founder of The Roughwood Table, a non-profit organization devoted to heritage foods from heritage seeds. His grandfather, H. Ralph Weaver, established the Roughwood Seed Collection in 1932, the oldest private seed collection in the Eastern United States which houses the largest collection of Native American seeds in the country. William Woys Weaver received his PhD in ethnography from University College, Dublin. Dr. Weaver is also an accomplished food photographer and has illustrated two of his books. Having worked on fiction and folk tale for many years, he now looks forward to bringing that material into print. For his full biography visit www.williamwoysweaverepicurewithhoe.com

Morning Session: Christopher Sauer: Medical Visionary and Advisor to the Working Poor

Germantown printer and apothecary Christopher Sauer, Jr. (1721-1784) published his herbal in annual installments in his Germantown almanac between 1762 and 1778. This is the first work printed in America devoted to botanical medicine as it was then understood in the 18 Century. Not only is the almanac chock full of herbal wisdom, but it also treats food as a form of wellness, thus the lines between diet and medicine are holistically blurred. Dr. Weaver has translated the herbal from the original Pennsylvania High German and edited it so that this rich historical document can now be used by herbalists, social historians, and plantsmen devoted to grassroots cures.

Afternoon Session: Foods of the Pennsylvania Dutch 1700-1900

The distinctive cuisine of the Pennsylvania Dutch region of Pennsylvania represents one of the most highly developed of all regional American cookeries. Starting as a cultural transplant from the Old World, the foodways of the Pennsylvania Dutch quickly evolved an identity of their own. Like the language spoken by these people, the foodways are now as thoroughly American as shoofly pie! This lecture will provide an overview of the culinary evolution ranging from the first settlement to WWI.
